Shropshire Music Season

Mon/Tue 25/26 Sept MID-WALES OPERA

The Shrewsbury Music Hall,
7.30 p.m.

'Madama Butterfly' Puccini

Following several years of packed houses for this outstanding company this year we present two performances of Puccini's deeply moving masterpiece. Long regarded as one of the world's most popular operas, the glorious melodies and exquisite orchestration vividly bring to life the exotic characters who inhabit this tragic tale of the clash between eastern and western cultures.

Pre-performance talk: 6.45p.m.

WED 11 Oct

ALBA

Attingham Hall
7.30p.m.

Vivien Ellis voice
Giles Lewin fiddles

"Medieval and traditional songs and fiddle music"

This unusual and varied programme traces the roots of popular song from French medieval song books to the oral tradition of the British Isles, through sensual dawn songs (albas) and touching laments for an unhappy marriage to virtuosic Scottish Gaelic mouth music and exquisitely decorated Irish ballads, framed by lively instrumental dances. The artists are two of England's leading early music performers.

Music for Kings and Queens

Programme includes Purcell, Couperin, Corelli, Scarlatti, C.P.E. Bach.

Chamber music written for royalty. This tour round the courts of Europe starts in London, then visits Louis XIV in Versailles, Scarlatti in Lisbon and Madrid, King Frederick the Great in Potsdam and even the Pope in Rome!

London Baroque are one of the longest established and most cohesive authentic music groups regarded world-wide as amongst the foremost exponents of the baroque. They magically mix works of virtually unknown composers next to familiar masterpieces and regularly perform as a larger ensemble with star names such as Emma Kirkby.

Story/Direction

John Woolrich
Toby Wilsher

Created under BCMG's new artistic director, the distinguished Thomas Ades, this is an exciting new music theatre work with a cast of twenty four actors and musicians which re-interprets the myth of Hephaestus, god of fire and forge, through mime, mask and puppetry and with a good sprinkling of Trestle's famous theatre magic. A play-within-a-play, the drama centres round the off-stage antics of the cast as emotions spill out on stage and real life blurs with fantasy.

Highly original, utterly absorbing entertainment.
